Berea, Kentucky, June 15, 2015 – Will Bowling, born and raised in Booneville, KY located in Owsley County, is currently participating in the Entrepreneurship for the Public Good (EPG) program, an entrepreneurship leadership institute at Berea College located in Kentucky. Bowling, a rising sophomore and youth leader at Berea College, was one of only 20 students accepted to participate in EPG this summer.

EPG is an intensive two-month institute that integrates leadership and entrepreneurship training, approximately 20 days of travel throughout counties in Kentucky, North Carolina, and West Virginia, student projects with Berea community partners, and numerous guest speakers (including numerous entrepreneurs like Berea Mayor Steve Connelly). EPG is built upon six core learning principles of “engaging complexity and uncertainty; exploring values and ethical structures; facilitating group decisions; recognizing opportunity; mobilizing resources; and, advocating change.” The goal of EPG is to uplift and inform student leaders about utilizing entrepreneurship and social media tools to empower local communities, using the Appalachian region as a model and opportunity to build direct relationships with successful Appalachian entrepreneurs and community partners.

Search Continues for Missing Owsley Coutian

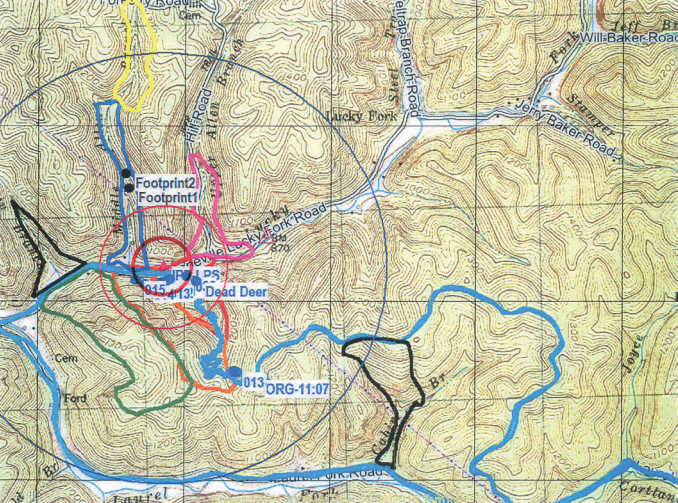

Last Thursday, 47 year old Conley Baker, Jr. walked off into the woods and hasn't been seen since. When he didn't return to his home on Lucky Fork Road, near Highway 2024 the family began to worry and began looking for him. When they were unsuccessful, they contacted the Owsley County Sheriff's Office.

According to Owsley County Sheriff Kelly Shouse there have been over 20 different organizations and dozens of local people and families that have come to assist in some form or another to offer their assistance in the search for Conley Baker, Jr.

"It just amazes me how quickly people will come to your assistance when you need it", stated Sheriff Shouse. "That's why I love living in Kentucky".

Since Thursday the search has almost been nonstop looking for Baker covering a huge area in the Lucky Fork area, but they are not giving up. "Even though we have not found anything", stated Sheriff Kelly Shouse "we are not ready to give up yet!"

"As long as we can get people to help us, we will continue to search for Baker", stated James Pendergrass DES Coordinator. "The terrain is so bad, in this area of the county it is hard to search and takes a lot of time".

The map above shows the point where they began their search where Conley Baker, Jr. disappeared. The circles show where they began searching. The biggest circle is where they last finished searching and are beyond now.

DOLLARS & SENSE

On Friday, May 8th fourth, fifth and sixth grade students at Owsley County Elementary experienced concepts in budgeting and economics. The 4-H Dollars and Sense Program was held for the first time at the school. This program is a spin-off of the popular 4-H Reality Story. Goals for the students was to realize several different things: proper budgeting is not always an easy task, there is a difference between needed items and desired items, wise financial choices make it easier to stay within their budget and what they have to show for the amount of money they spend. Students received an allowance of $200 for a given month and then had the opportunity to spend that allowance at booths provided. Booths they visited included Bank, Pet Store, Health and Grooming, Toy Store, Fast Food, Department Store, Contributions, Transportation, Entertainment, Candy Store, Chance Bedroom Décor, Veterinarian and Pet Store. In addition to receiving an allowance, most students had the responsibility of taking care of one or more pets. A special thank you to the following volunteers that helped us on this day: Karisha Hayton, Fannie Couch, Glenn Baker, Melinda McIntosh, Vonda Marshall, Mary McIntosh, Edna Stewart, Lesa Marcum, Kyle Bobrowski with Farmers State Bank, Kirstie Thompson, Jennifer Shouse with B&H Apothecary, Travis Smith and Jennifer Dye. Programs such as this can't go on without wonderful volunteers. We appreciate each of you helping us out and giving our students a valuable experience.

Educational programs of the Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service serve all people regardless of race, color, age, sex, religion, disability or national origin.

WHAT DO YOU WISH FOR YOUR CHILDREN?

How parents guide their children into adulthood is nearly as varied as the number of parents. On one end of the spectrum are parents that drive their kids into a particular profession with no regard for the desires or skills of the child. On the other end of the spectrum are parents who think children are a hindrance to their lives and give no thought whatsoever to the future of the next generation. Most moms and dads are somewhere in the middle. There is a desire for our children to achieve their dreams; we are willing to assist them, and we all have our views on how to accomplish this!

There are things we don't want to see happen to our kids as well. No one wants to see their grown children go to prison or homeless on the street.

When it comes to the lives of our adult children, it seems like our wishes for them are more material than spiritual. A college education, a successful career, an equal or higher social standing than ourselves appear to be the objective. Many parents set up college funds, begin saving for college before the child is born, others will borrow (or have the teenager borrow) large amounts of money to attend a school of higher learning. There are also parents that will insist the kid work his way through school.

Before I go on let me stress, there is nothing wrong with going to college or doing what is necessary to have your kids attend school beyond high school. What I'm questioning is where are our priorities when it comes to our children?

Mark 8:36, "For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" applies to our children as much as it does to us. I often see dads and moms stressing a good education and entering into a profession for the money it brings while the child's spiritual development is a side thought or entirely neglected.

The teaching of God to our children starts with our heart. "And these words, which I command thee this day, shall be in thine heart: And thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children, and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up." - Deuteronomy 6:6-7.

This passage is telling us to teach God's words to our children in all walks of life. No matter what they are doing or what situation they are in, the Word of God has a principle, precept or outright commandment that tells all of us how to respond. But, notice the beginning, to be properly equipped to teach spiritual things to our kids we are to have the Word of God in our hearts.

I've often stressed parents shouldn't send their kids to church; they should bring them. However, the few hours each week in a church is not nearly enough to teach a child of God and spiritual things. Remember the passage? When sitting in the house, when walking by the way, when lying down and when rising up encompasses far more than an hour on Sunday morning.

In every aspect of life, there is a God teaching moment. When a child sniffs a flower, there is a learning moment; God has created the beauty and the fragrance of the flowers. When a child sees the ants working together and carrying stuff back to the anthill there is an opportunity to teach children that God wants us to work for and appreciate what we have (Proverbs 6:6). When a child is caught in a lie there is opportunity to teach them that we are all sinners (Romans 3:10,23), that Christ died for all our sins (1 John 2:2), and faith in Him can give us eternal life (John 3:16). When we sit, walk, lay down and rise up there is an opportunity to teach our children about God.

Educational is important, we want our professionals highly skilled in what they do. But what is more important; a good steady income or eternal life? What should our priorities be?

If you are leaning toward the spiritual being more important, don't forget Deuteronomy 6:6-7. How well we can teach our children the things of God has a direct relation to how much God is in our hearts.

The above described property shall be sold upon the following terms and conditions:

1. The purchaser shall take the sale real estate free and clear of the claims of the parties to this action, but it shall be sold subject to the following:

- b. current year (2015) ad valorem real estate taxes affecting the real estate for which the purchaser shall take no credit on the purchase price;

Water - Essential for Life

Meetings City Hall

Meeting Dates and Time: Second Wednesday of Month 4:00 p.m.

This report is designed to inform the public about the quality of water and services provided on a daily basis. Our commitment is to provide our customers with a safe, clean, and reliable supply of drinking water. We want to assure that we will continue to monitor, improve, and protect the water system and deliver a high quality product. Water is the most indispensable product in every home and we ask everyone to be conservative and help us in our efforts to protect the water source and the water system.

Booneville Water treats surface water from the South Fork of the Kentucky River. An analysis of the susceptibility of the Booneville South Fork Kentucky River water supply to contamination indicates that susceptibility is generally moderate. However, there are a few areas of concern. Nonpoint source pollution such as agriculture, livestock, and logging are the most prominent sources of potential contamination. Several oil and gas wells are in the protection area as well. Bridges are another area of concern due to the potential for spills of hazardous materials. Fortunately, there are no bridges within ½ mile of the intake. A complete source water assessment can be viewed at Booneville City Hall during regular business hours. The Annual CCR is distributed via, internet, newspapers or hand delivery every year.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects may be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and may pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water include: Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, (sewage plants, septic systems, livestock operations, or wildlife). Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, (naturally occurring or from stormwater runoff, wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming). Pesticides and herbicides, (stormwater runoff, agriculture or residential uses). Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, (by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, or from gas stations, stormwater runoff, or septic systems). Radioactive contaminants, (naturally occurring or from oil and gas production or mining activities).

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water to provide the same protection for public health.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Some or all of these definitions may be found in this report:

Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) - the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG) - the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL) - the highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG) - the level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.

Below Detection Levels (BDL) - laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present.

Not Applicable (N/A) - does not apply.

Parts per million (ppm) - or milligrams per liter, (mg/L). One part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.

Parts per billion (ppb) - or micrograms per liter, (µg/L). One part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.

Parts per trillion (ppt) - one part per trillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000,000.

Parts per quadrillion (ppq) - one part per quadrillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000,000 years or one penny in $10,000,000,000,000.

Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) - a measure of the radioactivity in water.

Millirems per year (mrem/yr) - measure of radiation absorbed by the body.

Million Fibers per Liter (MFL) - a measure of the presence of asbestos fibers that are longer than 10 micrometers.

Nephelometric Turbidity Unit (NTU) - a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity has no health effects. However, turbidity can provide a medium for microbial growth. Turbidity is monitored because it is a good indicator of the effectiveness of the filtration system.

Variances & Exemptions (V&E) - State or EPA permission not to meet an MCL or a treatment technique under certain conditions.

Action Level (AL) - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements that a water system shall follow.

Treatment Technique (TT) - a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Information About Lead:

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. Your local public water system is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at <http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>.

The data presented in this report are from the most recent testing done in accordance with administrative regulations in 401 KAR Chapter 8. As authorized and approved by EPA, the State has reduced monitoring requirements for certain contaminants to less often than once per year because the concentrations of these contaminants are not expected to vary significantly from year to year. Some of the data in this table, though representative, may be more than one year old. Unless otherwise noted, the report level is the highest level detected.

His brother Will and he had talked about their granny and compared notes on what they had both learned from her. Since their father was gone most of the time earning a living, their mother and Granny Mary Jane had a huge impact upon the children. The women worked constantly just to feed and clothe the large family. Even though the children all had chores they were responsible for the women of the household would insist the children find time to play and be children. Clarence had carried that sense of needing to incorporate some down time or goof off time in his daily schedule. Each day when he came home from work he would take time to relax and do something he had been looking forward to spending time do- ing. Some days he had promised his daughters he would play catch in the yard. Some days he would complete a project he had on his mind. Other days he would take a walk in the woods behind his house and enjoy nature. He would encourage Lorene to take a break when he came home from work since she had been cooking and cleaning or washing throughout the day for her family. Lorene loved that part of Clarence's personality and knew his granny had taught him the importance of play and relaxation.

EPG students are working with local Appalachian business to raise the awareness of adventure tourism, a form of tourism that focuses on active experiences such as hiking, canoeing, and rock climbing. The program hopes to make the communities more attractive to this specific type of tourist with the use of social media and consumer specific marketing. By narrowing the target audience for local business, EPG hopes to once again aid Appalachian business into the next step of successful entrepreneurship.

So far this summer, Will has had the opportunity to bike seventeen miles down the Virginia Creeper Trail, rock climb Torrent Falls, and even hike the historical trails of Livingston, Ky. During this time, the students had the opportunity to experience adventure tourism first hand. While climbing steep cliffs and speeding down Whitetop Mtn. the EPG participants interviewed the many tourist that naturally found their way to these attractions. They used these interviews to pique the interest of Berea's local tourism commission in their own efforts to become an official trail town. EPG is in its twelfth year, currently under the direction of Dr. Peter Hackbert, a leading entrepreneurship professor who has been with the program for eight years. Berea College, founded in 1855 by John G. Fee, was the first interracial and co-educational college established in the southern United States. Berea charges no tuition, admitting only academically promising students who have limited economic resources. Berea's motto is, "God has made of one blood all peoples of the earth."
